Mayor's Message

By now, everyone is very much aware of the difficulties in the housing market and the global economic crisis that is creating so much distress worldwide. Mapleton has been significantly impacted, and we expect will continue to remain under considerable financial pressure for the foreseeable future. Consequently, we are taking every opportunity to try to improve the city's revenue streams and control expenditures and cut our costs.

As you will remember, the fiscal 2008-2009 budget adopted by the city council this past summer was an austerity budget in every sense of the word. Spending was cut by nearly 25%, and then was cut further before final adoption. Since then, construction starts have remained almost nonexistent. Although our revenue projections were very conservative, we are acutely aware there is still the very real potential of a budget shortfall. Consequently, in conjunction with the City Administrator, I am meeting with all city department heads on a regular basis to continually identify further savings, as well as projects and spending that can be postponed or cancelled.

One of the cost cutting measures the city is taking is to revise our winter snow clearing policy. In the past, we have not only plowed snow but also spread significant amounts of salt on the streets in order to achieve bare and dry pavement as much as possible. Because of the high cost of that much salt, we will not be able to purchase sufficient salt this coming winter to maintain our longstanding bare pavement policy. It will be important for everyone driving on our streets during this coming winter to understand that while we will continue to spread salt at intersections and critical areas, we will NOT be spreading salt on all our street surfaces, and will not be spreading salt as liberally as we previously have. In other words, we will be unable to artificially melt all the snow and ice off the entire length of our streets.

I am therefore urging everyone to commit now to drive slower and exercise greater caution this coming winter. Please allow extra space between yourself and the cars in front of you, and plan to begin stopping much sooner as you approach intersections. Even when you have the right of way, remember to approach intersections and cross streets with extreme caution, in case other drivers are unable to slow in time. At all times, please be vigilant and extremely cautious, giving extra room to parked vehicles, mailboxes, pedestrians and pets. We hope to be able to keep up with whatever amount of snow we receive. But we will be unable to spread salt between intersections as we previously have.

On the brighter side, for the first time, the city has a fully staffed and fully functioning Economic Development Commission made up of community members with extensive experience in business, commerce, and development. The Commission is meeting regularly and working with representatives from Commerce CRG, Envision Utah, and the Economic Development Commission of Utah in order to aggressively market Mapleton as a potential location for a variety of business ventures which could deliver additional revenue to the city.

City Newsletter

November 2008 Edition

The Commission is sensitive to the existing Mapleton Vision Statement and will be trying to achieve an appropriate balance between the city's very pressing financial needs and the desires of the residents to maintain the character and quality of life we have so long enjoyed in Mapleton. The Commission's meetings are open public meetings, so if any of you have a particular interest in attending, please contact the city offices to confirm the dates and times of those meetings.

On a final note, please remember that according to the terms of our garbage collection company's contract with the city, their workers are responsible to make certain any garbage that is spilled during the pick-up process is cleaned up. We have been working closely with the company to assure that their workers clean up all accidental spills that occur as the totes are emptied into the truck. City Administrator Bob Bradshaw and myself have driven around the city on collection day to make certain the workers are performing as expected. We hope you have seen improvement in this regard. If you have any concerns about spills or need workers to return to tidy up, please call or email Allied Waste directly at (801) 785-5934 or Eric.Bergin@awin.com. Or, you may contact the city offices at (801) 489-5655 to lodge a complaint. We are happy to call Allied Waste for you, as this will give us an opportunity to follow up and make certain you were satisfied with the response.

We also wish to express our gratitude to the community volunteers who continue to serve the needs of so many residents. We especially wish to thank those many of you who so generously stepped up to fill in at the library at the time of the retirement of Ellen Starr. Without your help, the library would not have remained open during that time. We appreciate your service. We will greatly miss Ellen, who has been so much a part of our town and our lives, and we wish her the very best.

Awake Utah Lake

After months of planning and public input, the Utah Lake Commission, a group comprised of local government officials and state agency leaders, is ready to present the guiding document for how future decisions regarding Utah Lake will be made. The Commission will hold two public open houses in December to share the draft vision and master plan for the lake, entitled Awake Utah Lake. The purposes of the open houses are to provide the public with an opportunity to learn first hand about the newly proposed vision and mater plan and provide comments.

The open houses, which are the same, will be held from 5-7pm on Wednesday, December 3rd at Willow creek middle School, 2275 West 300 North, Lehi, Utah, and Thursday, December 4th at the Utah Lake State Park, 4400 West Center Street, Provo, Utah.

In an effort to consider all aspects of Utah Lake, the draft vision and master plan incorporate elements for recreation, natural resources, land use and shoreline protection, and transportation. The purpose of Awake Utah Lake is to create a vision and management plan for Utah Lake that will guide the Utah Lake Commission and its member agencies in future decisions affecting the lake.

For more information about the Awake Utah Lake process, the public open houses, or the Utah Lake Commission, visit www.utahlakecommission.org.

400 South in Springville

Construction is Underway

Construction activities are underway as the Utah Department of Transportation has recently initiated work on SR-77 (400 South) in Springville.

Mapleton motorists who use 400 South to access I-15 and the business district near the freeway have probably seen construction workers on southbound I-15 between the two Springville exits, where UDOT plans to add an auxiliary lane connecting the two interchanges. They may have also seen workers around the SR-77 interchange, beginning to prepare the area for the new Single Point Urban Interchange (SPUI) that will be built there. And residents may have noticed test piles being driven near the interchange near the bridge at 400 West.

Area residents will first notice the work along I-15 and around the interchange area, which will probably continue through the end of the project in Fall of 2009. Most of the rest of the project, including widening 400 South and creating new bridges at 400 West and 1500 West, will take place between January and November 2009. Springville City has recently authorized UDOT to close 400 South during that period of time so that the work there can be completed more safely and during a more compressed schedule – in 11 months instead of being spread across 18 months.

400 South will close in early January and should be re-opened and ready for public access before Thanksgiving 2009.

For more information about the SR-77 construction project please visit the project Web site at www.udot.utah.gov/access or call the project information hotline at 1-877-222-3757.

Ambulance

Flashing Lights

Have you ever been on Maple Street when all of a sudden you are being followed by someone who has their flashers on and appear to be in a bigger hurry than you are? Well that person behind you is probably a Mapleton City volunteer with the Fire Department or Ambulance. We put on our flashers in hopes you'll pull over and allow us to get to the Fire Station or Ambulance Bay just a bit sooner because in an emergency every second counts. So instead of getting upset or bent out of shape and going slower, just think to yourself, what can their emergency be and are they heading to my house to care for one of my loved ones. We appreciate your help with this in the future.

Public Works

Winter Parking on Streets

With winter approaching we are reminding residents to make sure that all vehicles, trailers, boats, etc. are not parked overnight on the roads from November 15th through March 15th. The street sweeper needs to be able to access the gutters to keep them free of debris. Also, the snowplow drivers need to be able to plow snow without vehicles blocking their path. The Police Department will ticket vehicles that are parked on the street during this time period.

Senior Citizens

We are sure you have noticed the flyer inside the envelope with your utilities bill and the Mapleton Newsletter this month. This will replace the separate postcard advertising senior activities for the month (which usually comes by separate mail).
